

THOUSANDS MOB BRITISH EMBASSY, IN TOKYO'S CENTER

Worst Demonstration of Japanese Hatred Ever Witnessed

CUT OFF ESCAPE

Police Re-Inforcements Mount Well Into Hundreds Today

By James R. Young
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent

TOKYO, July 14.—For two hours, while a howling mob hurled stones, screamed anti-British slogans, and tried to smash down the gates, the British Embassy in Tokyo was besieged today in the worst demonstration of the British hatred Japan has ever witnessed.

Thousands of Japanese entirely surrounded the Embassy, cutting off all chance for escape. Repeated waves of police re-inforcement were unable to cope with the throng's surging charges until 3.35 o'clock this afternoon, when the police forces mounted to the hundreds.

Motorcycles were used by some of the demonstrators in an attempt to smash down the Embassy gate.

Another attack, possibly on a larger scale, was looked for tonight, and a strong force of police were kept on guard.

The assault on the Embassy—the second in a week—climaxed a bitter anti-British campaign in which high government officials did not hesitate to join.

More than one cabinet minister, following the imposition of a blockade in Tientsin, to force Britain to "co-operate" with Japan in Tokyo, referred to as Japan's "hated enemy."

Girl Acquitted, Murder Case, Plans Future

DOVER, Del., July 14.—(INS)—Speedily acquitted by an all-male jury of manslaughter charges in the lovers' lane shooting of her sweetheart, 18-year-old Isabella Donovan, of Milford, today prepared to "go back to work" and forget her four-day trial.

"I am very glad it's all over," said Isabella. "Naturally, I am happy. I'm not tired—just relieved." The jury of Kent county farmers had taken but two hours to free her of guilt in the death of Vaughn Webb, 19-year-old CCC worker, in a parked car in Milford last March 15.

Denying reports she was "going on Broadway to act," Miss Donovan said she might take a job as bookkeeper with her uncle and bondsman, Sorin Thompson, Scaford merchant. Previously she had burst into tears when the dead youth's mother snubbed her in the court room.

Wed in Doylestown; Take Honeymoon in Airplane

DOYLESTOWN, July 14.—Flying from Trenton, N. J., airport, to this borough Wednesday, Miss Lucy V. Rago, 22, Trenton, N. J., and Gerald Coigny, of Grants Pass, Ore., were wed by a local justice of the peace.

The marriage marked the start of a long journey by airplane for the bride, who had never been further from her home than to Atlantic City, before. With her husband she is now flying to Oregon on a honeymoon trip, and during the flight she plans to learn to fly. She had ridden on a train but once in her life.

Coigny just made his second visit to a Trenton aircraft manufacturing plant to purchase a plane, he having met the former Miss Rago there on his first journey a year ago.

Treasury Secretary May Pay Respects To Finland

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(INS)—Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau expects to pay a late Summer visit to the Scandinavian countries of Norway, Sweden and possibly Finland.

Although the Secretary's plans are still indefinite, he hopes to leave the United States early in August. He will be accompanied only by his family.

Originally, Morgenthau intended to confine his European visit to Norway. Some of his advisers, however, expressed the hope that he will include Finland in his itinerary.

Finland is the sole European nation that has kept up its war debt payments to the United States and the advisers feel that the head of the American Treasury should pay his respects to Finnish Government officials.

Sources close to the Treasury insisted today there was no significance in the Secretary's contemplated Scandinavian trip. Nevertheless, it is expected that Morgenthau will discuss economic and financial problems with foreign officials on an informal basis.

How Times Have Changed!

(By "The Stroller")

Time was when young and old would halt whatever bit of work or play they were engaged at to watch an automobile pass by; then came the time when necks would crane as an occasional airplane droned overhead.

But yesterday five workmen busy near their track on Bristol Pike stopped long enough to watch the approach of another type of vehicle. It was a hayrack drawn by two horses. They not only watched it approach, but leaned on their implements for some time, watching the progress of the horse-drawn vehicle up the highway.

Here and There in Bucks County Towns

A total of 278 visits, and mileage of 1,263, was tallied by Miss Maud L. Wagner, rural school Red Cross nurse for middle Bucks county during June.

Follow-up work in the homes is continuing during vacation and parents have been advised to have pre-school children vaccinated against smallpox, as well as to have toxoid administered before September 1. The nurse also advised that physical examinations be made by the family physician when the vaccination and toxoid treatments are given.

Parents are asking the nurse's advice in many instances as to how early this should be done in order to prepare the child for school. The nurse advised that the examination and treatments should be done as early as possible in order that the child be 100 per cent physically fit when entering school.

Mrs. John Chambers, Newtown, entertained the group of public health nurses at a picnic supper at her home at "Willow Hill Farm" recently. About ten nurses were present. The evening was much enjoyed.

Miss Wagner's activities were listed as follows: health services, school visits, 206; adult visits, 15; visits in behalf of nursing activities, 31, and general activities, 6; social service visit, 1; had 12 conferences with teachers and seven with pupils and attended one committee meeting and one nurses' meeting.

Night football to be played by the Sellersville-Perkasie high school team next Fall was assured following the action of the Sellersville-Perkasie School Board in session.

A representative of the Sellersville Greenjacket independent eleven told the board that the club would like the board to erect forty floodlights, to run about $1,000. In return the Greenjackets would receive the use of

Is Ready to Stake His Political Future in A General Election

HOPES BIG MAJORITY

By Charles A. Smith
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, July 14.—(INS)—Hitler permitting, Premier Neville Chamberlain has decided to stake his political future in a general parliamentary election next October, it was strongly reported in political circles today.

Present indications are that Premier Chamberlain's National Government will be returned to power with an overwhelming majority, but perhaps not as large as it has now.

The life of the present ministry is due to end next spring. The Conservative Central Office, political headquarters of the Chamberlain party, believes the general election for a new parliament should be deferred until the last moment. But Chamberlain is pictured as being anxious to settle matters as early as possible.

A new electoral register will come into being October 15. According to forecasts in political circles, the election campaign will begin about the same time, and voting will take place at the end of October.

By going to the country at this time, Premier Chamberlain will in effect be seeking an endorsement of his foreign policy. His chief opponents, represented by the Labor Party, will criticize his alleged instability in foreign affairs, particularly his switch from appeasement to strong-arm methods.

But the belief is widespread that the fact Chamberlain has thus far succeeded in keeping the British people out of war will pay him handsome dividends in a general election.

The reports of a coming general election have coincided with rumors that Chamberlain may step down from the premiership after the election and hand over his job to a younger man.

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

The Roosevelt Demands

Washington, July 13.

IN view of the present situation, it is easy to accept the contention of his friends that Mr. Roosevelt's success in turning defeat into victory, so far as the retention of his power to devalue the dollar is concerned, was of vital importance to him. This is not because, had the outcome been different, and of the dire things predicted by the President would have happened, but rather because of the effect upon the struggle now going on between Congress and the Executive and upon general political psychology.

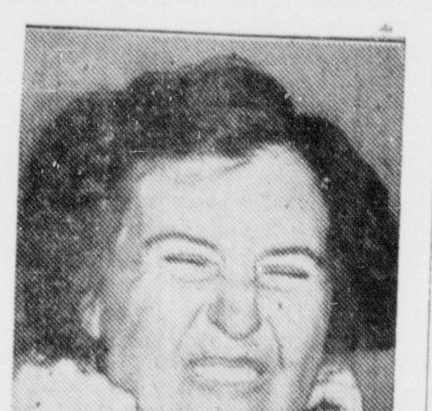

LOOKING BACK now, it is clear that Mr. Roosevelt went to extraordinary lengths to hold on to this emergency power, which he says he has no intention of using and which the Constitution clearly did not intend he should have. For one thing, in his public utterances and press-conference comments he made a number of statements which hardly square with the facts. For example, his flat assertion that before he secured control over the currency it was vested wholly in Wall Street. That seemed pure demagoguery. Control, as he must have known, was lodged wholly in the hands of Congress and the Federal Reserve Board.

ANOTHER example was his statement that "every time nations devalued, or talked of devaluing, international speculators were able to turn it to their personal profit." That, Mr. Ralph Robey, a recognized authority, declares, is simply not true. "A speculator," he wrote in News Week, "only could make money if he guessed right on future events, and the President, from his own experience as a speculator."

VACATION BIBLE SCHOOL CLOSSES ITS 29TH SEASON

Over 100 Attend Exercises In Presbyterian Church of Our Saviour

HAND-WORK DISPLAYED

Slides Are Shown Depicting The Lives of Christ and Paul

The 29th annual Daily Vacation Bible School, conducted by Presbyterian Church of Our Saviour, was concluded this morning, with the formal closing exercises last evening being attended by more than 100 parents and friends of the scholars.

With daily attendance of from 55 to 69, the students participated in a well-rounded program each morning for the past three weeks, under direction of the following teachers: the church missionary, Miss Gertrude Clavarella; the pastor, the Rev. Andrew G. Solla, and Mrs. Solla; Miss Dora Thompson, Miss Dorothy Biddle, Miss Livia Zanni.

One of the new features of the school this year was a chart on which names of the pupils was formed over a period of days. When a pupil answered the roll call for the first day with a Bible verse commencing with the first letter of his or her name, that letter would be placed on the board. The second day, the verse would start with the second letter of the name, and so on. Those having shorter names had gold stars placed after them as they continued daily to answer with verses they had learned.

A display of the embroidery and crocheted work; wood-work, etc., executed was shown last evening, and this morning the pupils took their individual places home with them, after a social time and refreshments. The project of the small children during the period of the school was to fashion in paper the little town of Bethlehem.

TEMPER THE WIND

Governor Arthur H. James, of Pennsylvania, has signed a bill passed by the legislature fixing the date for annual automobile registration as April 1, instead of January 1 as heretofore. Automobile owners who have their 1939 tags will be handed a "bonus," as they will be good for a full 15 months.

Agitation is under way in several other states for an extension of the date of auto registration. The idea is to give poor old Dad, after his Christmas shearing, a chance to grow a bit of wool for the tax-gatherers.

Proponents say that spring registration of cars would lessen the tendency of many automobile owners to put up their vehicles for a few months, the licensing date now coming too soon after the two most expensive periods of jollification—Christmas and New Year.

There seems a logical basis for this proposed change in the auto-taxing law. In addition, many would benefit—gasoline and oil men, from uninterrupted motoring; the family, from a merrier Christmas time, and state employees, from a reprieve in last-minute rushes to get tags, now staged annually between Christmas and New Year.

Extension of the registration period seems to be the proper remedy for an ill that seizes almost all of us at the most inopportune season of the year.

WEATHER STREAMLINED

July 1, 1939, will go down in history as an epochal date in the history of the government weather bureau. On that date such a message as this may have been sent over the wires: "50577 20681 8774321 6701." This is the same but shorter way of saying: "Retrospect Medbury guerrillas russet hulla cursing command," which has been the talk for nearly 50 years of the men who gaze at skies and gadgets and send their messages to headquarters.

Neither of the above means anything to the layman, but to weathermen they may mean such a thing as this: "In Galveston, Texas, the temperature was 79, the wind from the south, dew point 70, and no rain for the last 24 hours."

It is only a change of code, but it means a great deal to the busy meteorologists who have to scan the reports of all over the country. The new number system is expected to carry more detail and to be faster than the old method.

The man responsible for the change is the new federal weather bureau chief, Francis W. Reichelderfer. The work of the bureau is more than ever a mystery to all who have to take the weather, whether we like it or not. There's nothing we can do about it. But if the new system helps to warn us in time that we would better not plan on that picnic tomorrow, more power to Mr. Reichelderfer, who, a dispatch says, is now known as 098 454.

They say Hollywood has bought "Grapes of Wrath" to keep it from being filmed. Now if book publishers would co-operate, there would be nothing to interfere with the education of our poor, dumb public.

A Georgia Congressman thinks the Wagner Act should be suspended for one year. At the close thereof it could be cut down and given a Christian funeral.

when we wish to go 'outside' or visit points at a distance in Alaska, we just send for an airplane. We have a large field right by the cabin." The weekly baking, the care of the garden during the short Summer, and reading and games during the evenings help the time to pass both profitably and pleasantly she informed. "You see, there are four of us, so we can have competition in games. We grow a variety of vegetables, and store all that we can in the large root cellar." In addition to the airplane, truck and boat used on the first legs of her journey, Mrs. Williamson will possibly use train, bus, plane, and trolley, before she finally reaches her destination in Florida. Many states are included in her itinerary.

Upon arrival in Seattle Thursday morning, June 29th, a large portion of the party had as their first and turned Southward to Oregon, California, Arizona, and parts of Mexico. Those remaining in Seattle for the day took advantage of opportunities to see one of America's most attractive cities. Assigned to the Benjamin Franklin Hotel, a large group decided upon a tour of the city and to the government locks located in the canal which connects Puget Sound and Lake Washington. Leaving promptly after lunch for the 50-mile trip by land and water, we found a most interesting afternoon ahead. From a dock on Elliott Bay the sightseeing boat wound its way through the sound, past the great wharves where boats from the Orient, the Hawaiian Islands and Alaska dock, on toward Magnolia Bluff, rounded West Point and its light-house, and into the canal. The locks of this government canal, which afford free passage for all type of craft in the two chambers, are second only to the Panama Canal locks in the size of vessels accommodated. Here numerous boats are lifted each day from the salt waters of Puget Sound to the fresh waters of Lake Union or Lake Washington, or vice versa.

The larger of the two lock chambers, where the craft momentarily halted, measured 825x80 feet, and here vessels drawing as much as 36 feet of water can be accommodated. Thousands upon thousands of logs, water can be accommodated.

The Douglas firs from the Olympic range, and red cedar from other forests, had been floated downstream by means of boom-rails. Along the shore, saws buzzed busily as these were cut in various lengths, then finally made into beams, shingles, etc.

Beautifully landscaped lawns, with myriads of flowers, which line the shore, beggar description. At some of the private docks luxurious yachts were moored, while crafts of every description shuttled across the waters. The canal cuts Seattle, the city built upon seven hills, in half; and this together with the Sound and the lakes gave Seattle several hundred miles of shoreline. The remainder of the tour, taken by bus, included the business center, the University of Washington with its magnificent buildings and grounds; residential portions of the city; Leschi Park, and other points, the views being topped by the Olympic range to the West. An evening walk gave opportunity to see more of the theatre and business district, before boarding the North Coast Limited for the home-ward ride.

The train ride of Friday through the countless ranges of the Rockies was broken at Missoula where the world's largest steam locomotive was attached, to pull the train up to the Continental Divide. This was crossed at Homestead Pass, about 75 miles further South than where the crossing was made on the outward journey.

Arising early Saturday morning, the first of July, in order to view that portion of North Dakota's Bad Lands which the train traversed, we felt well rewarded, having an hour's ride through that uneven terrain.

At Mandan a dozen or so Sioux Indians in tribal dress, were at the station, displaying bead work in variety. One by one the party of travelers had dwindled, some leaving at Livingston, Mont.; others at St. Paul, Minn.; and many at Chicago, Ill., upon our arrival there July 2nd. But a few continued further East with the journey for we two from lower Bucks County ending on Monday, the third of July, a total of nearly 12,000 miles being covered.

Already typewriters were clicking, presses were humming, and stereo-typing being rushed throughout the land, as the editors and publishers of America attempted to tell readers about the land they had explored in such delightful fashion—Alaska, America's last frontier.

Firemen To Stage Night
Display, Willow Grove

Under the sponsorship of Abington Firemen's Association (chairman, Edwin H. Geissler), a spectacular night display of fire-fighting men and equipment will be staged in Willow Grove Park on Wednesday, July 26th. Volunteer fire companies from nearby Pennsylvania and New Jersey points will participate. The grand parade with band music begins promptly at 8:30, and will be followed by a gigantic fireworks display over the lake, but the thrilling climax of the evening will be a sensational water barrage, during which thousands of gallons of water will be shot from power hose nozzles in huge streams high over the lake while brilliant shafts of light from 800-million candle-power searchlights play over them. More than 50 fire companies are scheduled for participation in this dramatically spectacular night display.

A special treat is in store for music lovers on July 22nd, when the Rhinogold Chorus under the direction of Paul Gesser and assisted by Puljer's Viennese Orchestra, presents in the Music Pavilion at 8:30 p. m., a "Johann Strauss Evening" program, featuring the "Great Waltzes."

ON THE SCREENS

RITZ THEATRE
To be an asset to a motion picture a song must have more than just the qualities to make it a popular hit.

So believe Johnny Burke and James Monaco, who composed the four songs Bing Crosby sings in his new Universal picture, "East Side of Heaven," coming to the Ritz Theatre today.

"Naturally a song must have popular appeal or it's no good at all," declare Burke and Monaco. "But if it is to be sung in a picture, it also must blend with the theme. In other words, instead of slowing down the story, the song must give it even greater motivation."

BRISTOL THEATRE

A pencil, a fishing reel, an ether can and a deftly-sewn bullet wound are the clues that lead to the expose of the "Undercover Doctor" coming today to the Bristol Theatre. Based on the real-life case in G-Man J. Edgar Hoover's book, "Persons in Hiding," the Paramount crime film records the amazing complicity of a brilliant surgeon, a professed civic leader, and a gang of ruthless killers.

GRAND THEATRE

No happier combination of stellar players has been achieved in recent months than that of Claudette Colbert and James Stewart who are currently to be seen together on the Grand Theatre screen in "It's a Wonderful World."

With amusing situations tumbling over one another, and sprightly dialogue rattling off the laughs at almost machine-gun pace, the story reveals Stewart in the role of Guy Johnson, private detective, hired to keep an irresponsible, oft-married millionaire Broadway playboy out of trouble. When the millionaire is accused of murder, Stewart becomes involved. He escapes to seek a solution of the murder and is caught in the act by Miss Colbert who plays Edwina Corday, a poetess.

MIKSIS LEADS ATTACK, LANDRETH DOWNS AMBLER

With Johnnie Miksis leading the attack with two triples and a single, and driving in four runs the Landreth Seeds defeated the Ambler team last night in a twilight game at Landreth Ball Park 12-5 for their ninth straight victory and their second over Ambler in two days, they having defeated them Wednesday night at Ambler 5-1.

Landreth's started their scoring with three runs in the first inning. Rockhill hit by a pitched ball moved up on Liberator's sacrifice. Costello also was hit putting runners on first and second. Lodge forced Costello on a grounder to short Broderick single scored Rockhill. Miksis tripled scoring Lodge and Broderick.

Another was added in the fourth, on Miksis infield hit, his steal and Firmin's error on Griggs drive.

Ambler could do nothing with Mel Heisley's pitching (ill the fourth). Then successive two base hits by Robbins and Livezy and Fry's triple gave them two runs. They tied the score in the seventh on Taylor's hit, Dougherty's error, a sacrifice fielder's choice and Firmin's triple scoring two runs.

The Farmers went in the lead in their seventh with a five run rally. With one out, Heisley singled and after Rockhill fled out Liberator and Costello made hits breaking the tie. Robbins' muffed of Lodge's drive allowed Liberator and Costello to score. Broderick's single and Miksis' triple scored two more.

A fielder's choice, a base on balls to Liberator, Costello's two base hit and Lodge's single gave Landreth their final three runs in the eighth.

Next home game on Sunday with Riverside, the leading club in the Burlington County League and the team that defeated Landreth here in June 2 to 1.

NO-HIT, NO-RUN GAME IS PITCHED BY QUINTO

Before the largest crowd ever to witness a softball game in this vicinity, Quinto, Fifth Ward's ace pitcher, pitched a no-hit, no run game in the Community League, defeating the DiRenzo's pants by the score of 8-0, last night.

Out of the 21 men to face Quinto, not a man reached first base. Quinto struck out 12 men. Never before in the Community League was a no-hit, no-run game pitched.

The Fifth Warders started rather early in the game in scoring, getting 6 runs on 8 hits in the first inning.

DIAMOND VS. GRUNDY'S IN TONIGHT'S SCHEDULE

In the only tilt scheduled for this evening, the Diamond team will play the Grundy's nine on Landreth's field. The game is a scheduled one of the Bristol Twilight League.

A defeat for the Grundyites will drop them into the cellar and for the first time this season, the Hall Aluminum nine will be out of the last position. The Diamond team has increased its lead on first place considerably and a win tonight will make it two full games to the lead.

Joe Antonelli will do the hurling for the wooden twisters and most likely will be opposed by Al Helveston. In a game Wednesday night, the Diamondites barely nosed out the Grundymen, 5-4.

MICKEY FINN TO CLASH WITH FRANK DONOFRIO

At St. Ann's open air Arena in Bristol on Monday night Mickey Finn of Tullytown clashes with Frank Donofrio in the last half of a double wind-up arranged by Promoter Joe Gruneio. In meeting Donofrio, Finn will be coming up against an opponent with a deadly right hand punch who keeps coming from the sound of the opening gong in an attempt to score a kayo. At one time Donofrio was looked on as an outstanding threat to the light-heavyweight crown of John Henry Lewis, due to the sensational knockouts he scored over Billy Ketchell, and others. Others that Donofrio has met within the roped arena include Buddy Ryan of Newark, Gus Dorazio, Frank Zamaris, among others.

Finn, on the other hand, is confident of his ability to turn back the advances of Donofrio and the Tullytown fighter hops to meet one of the championship contenders in the near future. In fact Finn is so confident concerning the outcome of his encounter with Donofrio that he is talking of knocking him out before the eighth round is reached. He is training hard with this intention in mind.

The first half of the double windup of eight rounds will show that promising featherweight of Philadelphia, Tony Sarullo, pitting his skill against a newcomer from New York, Ricard Toma by name. Sarullo, who has been dubbed the "Ned Sparks" of the prize ring because of his serious mein, at all times while he is in the ring, has recently issued a challenge to Henry Jeffra, the former bantam king who is now campaigning as a featherweight.

In Toma he will have his mettle tested, as he is meeting a man who only recently gave Joey Archbald the featherweight king, a stern tussle for ten rounds. Toma has boxed Lou Scalzo, Joey Wach among others and comes here with a reputation of a busy and aggressive fighter.

A six-round bout will show Lenny Dever, the Bristol puncher, meeting up with a former amateur champion who has been going great guns since turning pro, Joe Amico of Philadelphia. The four-rounders will show Lou Angelo, the "white hope" of Trenton, meeting a heavyweight from Philadelphia, Bill Wright. In this contest something will fall. Another four-rounder shows Willie Lucas of Philadelphia against Freddy Budassi of Trenton, and the opener will present Johnny Morello against Benny "Killer" O'Neill of Trenton. First bout at 8.45 p. m.

BRISTOL METHODIST WINS OVER CROYDON

In one of the fastest games played in the Church League, Bristol Methodist defeated Croydon Methodist at Croydon, 10-1. The hitting of "Boake" Carter and the fielding of "Bear" Moss, who incidentally had 10 put-outs, was outstanding. Dave Ludwig, in his second start as a pitcher, pitched good ball to win his second straight game of the second half.

The Great Game of Politics

ulator in German marks some years earlier, should know that that is not easy." Of course, the Roosevelt declaration that to restore to Congress its currency control would weaken our national defense, in the light of a two-billion-dollar stabilization fund subject to Treasury direction, is too far-fetched to be treated seriously.

ANOTHER thing the President was forced to do to win this fight was to go almost as far as the coalition against him in bribing the silver Senators with an increased price for that metal. Still another was to put personal pressure on a number of men who conscientiously believe there no longer exists any reasonable excuse for the retention of currency control by the President. In other words, Mr. Roosevelt went to extremes of which he hardly can be proud in order to avert defeat on this issue of keeping the powers given him in the name of emergency.

HIS friends, however, justify everything that was done and said on the ground that had the President lost on this, the first serious attempt of Congress to recover its constitutional functions so blithely voted away in the early New Deal days, it would have been a serious setback. His political strength and prestige would have been irretrievably damaged. If with public approval Congress had succeeded in taking away currency control, unquestionably it would have moved to recall various other extraordinary powers given the President by Congress at his insistence in the days when it could refuse him nothing.

IT is interesting that while some of these powers Mr. Roosevelt has never used, there seems to be none which he voluntarily will relinquish. The degree to which he cherishes what he has is one reason for the belief that had he lost on the monetary bill he would have been weakened all along the line. His success, it is asserted, has had the contrary effect. He has not, it is true, regained real control of Congress, but he distinctly is not a beaten man and his confidence is still high. This is evidenced by his present insistence that Congress do two things before it adjourns.

FIRST, he is determined that it shall revise the embargo features of the neutrality law so as to invest him with wide discretionary powers and remove the restrictions against selling arms and munitions to belligerents. And in this he is on sound ground. Second, he insists that Congress pass his new domestic and foreign four-billion-dollar spending-lending program which is to operate "outside the budget" and with "self-liquidating" projects. Had he lost in the monetary battle, he still might have these demands, but he would have stood no chance at all of enforcing them. Congress would just have laughed and gone home.

AS things stand, the odds are against him on the neutrality proposition, because of the adverse action of the Foreign Affairs Committee. But he has not irretrievably lost that battle. There is still a chance to win. On the spending-lending proposal, the weakness of the "self-liquidating" idea and of the argument that these expenditures will not add to the debt and deepen the deficit has pretty generally been made clear. Mr. Roosevelt's most optimistic friends do not now think he can get more than a small part of this program through. Nevertheless, had he not pulled that currency victory out of the fire he would have been finished for the session. Those who know him best agree, too, that it would have had a very bad psychological effect upon the President personally.

Votes May Determine Chamberlain's Future

The rumors are strongly discredited in Government circles. What is more probable is that Chamberlain will extensively reshuffle his Government, bringing in new and younger blood here and there, particularly in the defense posts.

At the moment, the National Government has a House of Commons strength of 419 seats, against 196 held by the opposition parties. Labor, the chief opposition party, confidently anticipates to increase its representation to 290 seats or more, but not even the most fervid Laborite expects Labor to be returned with a majority.
